DEFINITIONS

FEMALE GENITAL MUTILATION (FGM)

UK Government definition

Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) is a procedure where the female genital organs are injured or changed and there is no medical reason for this. It is frequently a very traumatic and violent act for the victim and can cause harm in many ways. The practice can cause severe pain and there may be immediate and/ or long-term health consequences, including mental health problems, difficulties in childbirth, causing danger to the child and mother; and/or death.1

World Health Organisation definition

Female genital mutilation (FGM) comprises all procedures that involve partial or total removal of the external female genitalia, or other injury to the female genital organs for non-medical reasons.2

VIRGINITY TESTING

Virginity testing, also referred to as hymen, '2-finger' or vaginal examination, is an inspection of the female genitalia, intended to determine whether a woman or girl has had vaginal sexual intercourse.

For the purposes of the Health and Care Act 20223, virginity testing is any examination (with or without contact) of the female genitalia intended to establish if vaginal intercourse has taken place. This is irrespective of whether consent has been given.

The position of the World Health Organization and the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (RCOG) is that virginity tests have no scientific merit or clinical indication as there is no known examination that can prove whether a woman has had vaginal intercourse.

HYMENOPLASTY

Hymenoplasty is a procedure undertaken to reconstruct a hymen. There are a number of different techniques to achieve but it generally involves stitching hymenal remnants together at the vaginal opening, or surgically reconstructing a hymen using vaginal tissue. The aim of the procedure is to ensure that a woman bleeds the next time she has intercourse to give the impression that she has no history of vaginal intercourse. There is no guarantee that this will fully reform the hymen or cause bleeding when penetration is attempted.

Hymenoplasty is not the same as other procedures that could be performed on the hymen for clinical reasons (for example, surgery to treat an imperforate hymen to allow menstrual blood to escape).

Specialist clinics West Midlands

Pregnant Women

The clinic for pregnant women is held in the Maternity Department at City Hospital, Birmingham. Community or antenatal midwives will refer women into this particular clinic.

Non-Pregnant Women

The clinic for non-pregnant women is held at Summerfield Primary Care Centre, in Heath Street, Winson Green, which is near City Hospital. Women can self-refer or be referred by their GP. Alternatively, anyone can refer a woman to the clinic. The clinic was launched in November 2019. Read more about the launch here.

To refer to the clinic for non-pregnant women email swbh.summerfieldfgm@nhs.net

NATIONAL SERVICES

The Home Office FGM Unit:

- provides outreach support to local areas to support them in developing their local response to fighting FGM and to raise awareness of the unit
- · identifies and highlights examples of effective practice across local areas and professional groups
- promotes (and provides on request) available FGM resources
- provides a free e-learning course in FGM, which anybody can take: Recognising and preventing FGM
- works with the police, Border Force, the Crown Prosecution Service and the College of Policing to improve the identification and prosecution of offenders
- maintains an overview of all Government work to fight FGM and works closely with the voluntary and community sector, survivors and professionals to develop cross-cutting policies and processes.

If you are interested in receiving any outreach support or have any other queries, please email the FGM unit at fgmenquiries@homeoffice.gov.uk. Please note that the unit cannot deal with individual cases of FGM.

National FGM helpline

The NSPCC operates a free national FGM helpline, which offers guidance to thousands of people, including professionals. The FGM helpline is staffed by specialised practitioners, who are all trained to identify the risk of FGM. The helpline can offer advice and support: if you are worried about a child who is at risk of FGM, if somebody has already undergone an FGM procedure or if you have any questions regarding FGM.

FGM PROTECTION ORDER'S (FGMPO)

Female Genital Mutilation Protection Orders (FGMPOs) offer a legal means to protect and safeguard victims and potential victims of FGM. FGMPOs are granted by a court and are unique to each case. They contain conditions to protect a victim or potential victim from FGM. This could include, for example, surrendering a passport to prevent the person at risk from being taken abroad for FGM or requirements that no one arranges for FGM to be performed on the person being protected.

Who can apply for an order?

- The person who has had or is at risk of FGM;
- · a local authority; or
- any other person with the permission of the court (for example, the police, a teacher, a charity or a family member).

Adults or children (those under 18) can apply for an FGMPO. Children may have a 'next friend' or someone to assist them, but do not have to if they have a legal representative or if the court agrees.

The contact details of the person applying for a FGMPO can be kept confidential if required.

Where can I apply for an order?

An application for a FGMPO can be made at a Family Court in England and Wales. The person completing the application should read the guidance first. This guidance is available in Amharic, Arabic, English, Farsi, French, Somali, Swahili, Tigrinya, Turkish, Urdu and Welsh.

More information on applications can be found here: FGMPO Factsheet
